FAMILY TRADITION

Renard's Cheese was established in Door County, Wisconsin in 1961 by Howard Renard. Since then, we have remained a family-owned and operated creamery and retail store. Chris and Ann Renard own the business, as well as Rosewood Dairy, where all our cheese is made. We continue to practice the art of producing award-winning cheeses with the knowledge that has been passed down through the generations. To this day, our gourmet cheeses are still handcrafted the old-fashioned way, with minimal automation.

Owner Chris Renard is the third generation of cheesemakers to lead Rosewood Dairy. Chris is among an elite group of industry professionals to have earned the prestigious title of Master Cheesemaker, a nationally acclaimed title. Wisconsin is the only state in the U.S. to offer this rigorous program, and achieving this certification takes more than 13 years. The knowledge gained from this certification ensures that our cheeses meet the gold standard of quality and craftsmanship.

While many things have changed over three generations, the Renard family heritage and iconic cheese recipes remain the same.
