Performance packaging → moving at the speed of your business

What really separates us is our people, and the special brand of personalised service we deliver.

There's something profoundly satisfying about relationships built through genuine curiosity, careful listening, and thoughtful innovation that comes from truly understanding what someone needs. We've spent decades perfecting this approach, creating a culture where learning isn't just encouraged, it's essential.

Our teams work together with genuine care for the outcome. There's a warmth to doing business this way, where expertise meets empathy and today's conversation becomes tomorrow's breakthrough. It's partnership that feels as good as it performs.

Our Commitment

We pride ourselves on selling quality packaging materials and providing a level of service that only comes with a family owned business.

Founded by Roger and Beverley Paynter over 50 years ago in 1974.

From humble beginnings selling general packaging materials from their West End, Brisbane premises, after recognising a shift in the market towards the need for flexible films, Roger and Beverley custom built their first polyethylene extrusion facility in 1982.

This expansion helped to revolutionise the way fresh food and food materials were being processed and stored.

Fast forward to 2012, to accommodate customers ever evolving packaging requirements and to meet industry demand, Pakall moved again to larger premises enabling the business to expand into multilayer film and barrier products.

Handing over the reins of the day-to-day management of the business to son Greg in 2010, Roger continues to support the business and its customers to the present day.

“While we’ve grown, our core values instilled by the family have never changed; quality, service, reliability, teamwork and constant innovation.”
